a. He told hello to me.
b. I am hating eggs.
c. I have a long blonde hair.

Question 3

Read the email and choose 2 of the underlined items/ expressions to teach. How will you illustrate the meaning of each one?

Hi Mary
How are things? Just checking to see if we are still on for Friday evening? I heard that the film is really gory though. Not sure I want to see it. How about going to an exhibition instead? There's a great modern art thing at the Gulbenkian. Do you fancy that? We could meet for a drink at 6 and then go on from there. Let me know.

Take care

John

Expression/item and meaning	Ways of conveying meaning
-----------------------------	---------------------------

Example Are still on – a colloquial expression asking for confirmation of something	A short anecdote, e.g. John suggested to Mary that they meet for dinner on Friday. He is uncertain if Mary is free. He could say: are you available but instead he says: are we still on for Friday evening?
